

LONE MAN OF 60 ROUTES FOOTPADS IN BOLD HOLDUP

Three Who Attack George
Stikeman, Noted Bookbinder,
Pick a Veritable Tartar.

TOOTS POLICE WHISTLE.

Trio Take to Heels, With Dollar Watch Sole Booty—One Caught After Chase.

George Stikeman, head of Stikeman & Co., bookbinders, at No. 110 West Thirtieth street, and one of the best known men in that business in the country, left his office shortly after 8 o'clock last night. While walking West in Thirtieth street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, a young man leaped out at Mr. Stikeman and threw him to the pavement. He then began rifling his pockets and secured a watch.

Although over sixty Mr. Stikeman put up a stiff fight and the robber was unable to get his wallet. Two other robbers joined the first but not before the bookbinder scrambled to his feet and began calling for the police.

Mr. Stikeman also sounded his police whistle and several men ran to the aid. The three robbers fled to Seventh avenue and turned south. The crowd kept close to them. Two of them turned east at Thirtieth street, apparently forgetting all about the West Thirtieth street police station.

ONE MAN GRABBED IN FLIGHT
PAST STATION.

Patrolman Tierney was on the steps of the station, and on hearing the cries of "Stop thief!" and the police whistles he ran out and grabbed one of the fugitives. The other continued on his way and disappeared.

The prisoner was ranked into the station, where he said he was William Brady, of No. 340 East Forty-ninth street, employed as an elevator runner in a club in Gramercy Square.

Detectives Trojan and Van Twisten asked the prisoner if he was not a member of the McIntyre gang which makes its headquarters at First avenue and Sixtieth street.

"Don't you mean you live at No. 340 East Sixtieth, the home of that gang instead of No. 340 East Forty-ninth?" asked Trojan.

Before Brady could answer a young man pushed his way in the door and up to the desk.

"What do you want here?" he was asked.

"Just to see what the trouble's about," he replied. Asked who he was he said he was John Butler, an elevator runner employed in a club in Gramercy Square, and living at No. 349 East Sixtieth street.

THINK GANG HAS MOVED OVER TO WEST SIDE.

Butler was arrested immediately as a suspicious person. A charge of highway robbery was made against Brady. Mr. Stikeman had positively identified him as the man who got his watch.

"I don't care a hang for the watch," Mr. Stikeman said. "It cost only a dollar, but the nerve of this creature to attack me on a crowded street!" Mr. Stikeman, who was unhurt, then went home. There have been numerous attacks on the vicinity of the West Thirtieth street police station recently and the detectives believe the McIntyre gang has shifted its operations from the east to the west side.

SOUGHT GERMS, FOUND KIT.

Three Men Held on Suspicion After Police Search Room.

Detectives Cassidy and Foley of the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street station went to a furnished room house at No. 303 East One Hundred and First street early to-day to investigate a report there was a contagious disease in the place.

In one room they say they found three men and two masks, a revolver, a "jimmy," two flash lamps, a quantity of jewelry and an expensive woman's gown. The men described themselves as Max Fulch, twenty-two, and Harry Stern, twenty-six, living in the house, and Irving Kheber, twenty-six, of No. 303 Third avenue. All were held on suspicion persons and the police are trying to find the owners of the property.

Fine Christmas Jewelry at Lamberts at Prices Within Your Reach

Figure it this way. Suppose you plan to give at Christmas a gold watch to your wife, a solid gold bead necklace to your daughter, a pair of diamond sleeve links to your son and a solid gold monogram fob to some other member of the family.

If you buy all these articles at Lamberts you can save on three of them almost enough to pay for the fourth. Scarcely any other jewelry house in America is able to give you such values as Lambert Brothers give.

We make a large part of our stock in a factory on the premises with our store.

We buy of other manufacturers direct, never through middlemen. We import Diamonds and other precious stones direct. A member of our firm visits Europe every year to make purchases. On his last trip he made heavy purchases of Diamonds, which were imported before the duty on them was raised.

All prices at Lamberts are marked in plain figures that mean just what they say. The prices could not be so low if we had an expensive store in a high-priced street. But we haven't. To attract purchasers of fine Diamond and Solid Gold Jewelry, Watches and Silverware to our store, we depend not upon elegant fittings, but upon the beauty and solid workmanship of what we sell—in a word upon what the customer takes home with him.

Orders for engraving Christmas jewelry should be placed early. Ordinary monograms and initials are engraved without charge. Otherwise the charges are low and the designs are of the most original styles.

Although Christmas month is here, there is still time to lay away gifts in our vaults which may be paid for when called for. A small deposit is requested on engraving orders.

Lambert Solid Gold Lavallieres to the Front

A most attractive line of them, spreading across this announcement, forms the advance guard, as it were, to a great line in the Lambert store. This is a Lavalliere Christmas season with us. We don't remember when a particular style of ornament has so taken possession of popular taste as our Lavallieres have. We guarantee the quality of them and we save money for every buyer.

Makes a Big Difference When You Buy Diamonds at Lamberts

Diamond Engagement Rings to be worn and displayed with pride might be as costly at Lamberts as elsewhere were it not that We imported quantities of fine full-cut diamonds before the rise in duty. We paid the lowest spot-cash prices and consequently can sell at low prices.

We deal direct with the diamond cutters and never with middlemen. Hence you pay us only one profit, and that is not a large one.

We mount all our own Diamonds in solid 14 karat or 18 karat gold or platinum.

Our store is not in a high priced neighborhood nor is it expensively run.
